

CALL FOR PAPERS

Comparative Constitutional Studies

Now accepting submissions
for volume 5.1 (2027).
Submit by 1 September 2026.

Comparative Constitutional Studies

General Editors:

Adrienne Stone, Melbourne Laureate Professor, University of Melbourne and Lael K Weis, Associate Professor of Law, University of Melbourne

Aims and scope

Comparative Constitutional Studies (CCS) is an international journal for comparative public law scholarship, publishing three issues per year: two general issues, and one special issue on a specific topic or theme. 'Constitutional Studies' is conceived broadly to include constitutional and administrative law scholarship that advances the study of key issues and questions within the field through examining experiences and perspectives from a range of different jurisdictions. Contributions could involve, for example, a detailed study of a practice from a single country that seeks to draw lessons for other countries, or a set of case studies from different countries that seeks to examine similarities and differences with respect to how a particular practice has been developed in a variety of constitutional systems. CCS aims to facilitate global engagement, collaboration and debate among public law scholars from diverse legal and intellectual traditions. It has a diverse international editorial board comprised of leading academics and jurists and seeks to promote innovative research on topics, perspectives, and research methods that are underrepresented in the field. CCS has a broad disciplinary focus and welcomes legal and interdisciplinary scholarship.

Submissions and Correspondence

The Editors of CCS welcome high-quality original scholarly contributions on any topic in comparative public law. CCS publishes standard-length articles (8,000-12,000 words), comments and review essays (5,000-6,000 words), and book reviews (2,000-4,000 words). Submissions will be subject to double-blind peer review. The Editors reserve the right to reject submissions without review.

For more information: www.elgaronline.com/ccs

For general enquiries, please email: CCS-Journal@unimelb.edu.au

EE Elgaronline

The online platform for Elgar Publishing.

Ask your librarian or information officer to request a free trial.

Email: sales@e-elgar.com for more information.

www.elgaronline.com