VENUE: NATIONAL LAW INSTITUTE UNIVERSITY, BHOPAL

Remembering

LATE PROF. (DR.) MUKESH SRIVASTAVA

Prof. (Dr.) Mukesh Srivastava was a revered scholar, devoted teacher, and compassionate human being. He served NLIU with distinction from 1999, first as Associate Professor and later as Professor of English since 2007. Over the years, he played a pivotal role in shaping the academic and cultural life of the university. His illustrious academic journey included teaching stints at the University of Chicago, IIM Ahmedabad, Osmania University, Hyderabad and the Jagran Institute of Communications & Management, Bhopal. A distinguished researcher in Cultural Studies and Law & Literature, he authored several critical works. Beyond his academic excellence, he was a warm-hearted and generous mentor, always extending support not just to students but also to the non-teaching staff and the larger NLIU community. His multifaceted contributions, including various administrative roles and his commitment to inclusive education, have left an indelible mark on NLIU. His legacy will remain etched in the heart of NLIU forever.

ABOUT THE UNIVERSITY

The National Law Institute University is a renowned law school located in Bhopal, Madhya Pradesh, India. Established in 1997, it is one of the premier National Law Universities in the country. NLIU offers a range of undergraduate and postgraduate programs in law, including the five-year integrated B.A., LL.B. (Hons.) and B.Sc., LL.B. (Hons.) [Cyber Security] programs, one-year LL.M. programs in various specialisations, a two-year Master of Cyber Law and Information Security program (MCLIS), P.G. Diploma programs in various specialisations, and Ph.D. programs for advanced interdisciplinary research. NLIU boasts a strong alumni base and takes pride in the quality of its students.

NLIU is proud to have been conferred the title of 'Best Law School in India for Industry–Academia Collaboration' at the 3rd International Legal Conference 2026, themed 'Globalisation of Legal Services – Law, Trade and Technology'. The conference was organised by the Services Export Promotion Council under the aegis of the Ministry of Commerce and Industry, Government of India.

ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

We are pleased to announce that the Centre for Law and Literature (CFLL) at the National Law Institute University (NLIU), Bhopal, proposes to organize a Two-Day International Conference on Law, Language and Literature on February 6–7, 2027.

The conference is dedicated to the fond memory of Late Prof. (Dr.) Mukesh Srivastava (served as Professor of English, NLIU) in recognition of his dedicated service of over two decades and his invaluable contribution as one of the founding pillars of NLIU. We cordially invite your esteemed participation and presence at the conference.

CONCEPT NOTE

The Law and Literature movement, which began in Europe and the U.S.A., has deep roots in democratic traditions and the celebration of individual freedom and liberty. The movement may also be related, even if indirectly and tangentially, to Critical Legal thinking and methods of analysing not only literary texts, but larger historical, social and cultural formations, legal institutions and practices. While traditional jurisprudence claims to reveal, through pure reason and juristic techniques, a picture of universal principles and truth beneath the historical and social variability of laws, institutions and practices, the Law and Literature enterprise, when allied to critical legal theory, opens up such models of jurisprudence for further scrutiny.

Since the publication of The Legal Imagination by James Boyd White, the argument that law as an intellectual discipline is constituted more as a discursive form of the liberal arts than as social sciences or logic has been gaining momentum. Several noted philosophers, including some legal theorists, have supported this argument using diverse methods of inquiry and tools of analysis. These inquiries into jurisprudence, legal doctrines, and institutional practices question the founding assumption of law as a discrete and autonomous intellectual discipline, supported by specific rule-based rational practices and seek to restore it to a humbler place of narrativity, storytelling or a highly stylised register of language use. Thus, narrative logic lies at the heart of the Law and Literature movement, where attention to rhetoric and imagination is central to understanding parallels between legal and literary interpretations and indeed, interpretations of the world of 'objective reality'. In this endeavour, the search for meaning and the best interpretation becomes a matter of ethical and moral responsibility, rather than of mere rational conclusion.

While in Europe and the U.S.A. the movement gained traction and to a limited extent, influenced some policymakers, in India it is still a work in progress. The proposed conference aims to bring together leading scholars, academicians and practitioners from diverse backgrounds to explore the intricate and dynamic relationships between law, language and literature. The conference will also address emerging challenges and innovations across these disciplines. The event will feature keynote speeches, paper presentations, panel discussions, etc.
